

Development land tax would prove to be a major disincentive

"The spectre of a Development Land Tax returning to haunt the whole process is a very real threat to development, especially if proposed works are financially marginal" comments David Furniss on icTeeside.co.uk